1 Usage

The `UserDashboard` template allows any logged-in user who has writing permissions, to build customized dashboards to follow up the state of the pages on which this user has a role (e.g. main writer, expert...) to play.

A dashboard is obtained thanks to a Semantic MediaWiki query<sup>[ud 1]</sup>, and is displayed as a searchable and exportable table thanks to the `table` format and the `datatable` class<sup>[ud 2]</sup>. The features of this class are:

- nice visual appearance
- search input box for searching within the table
- easy export of the table's content into CSV, JSON, RSS and RDF

Usage: {{UserDashboard | user=<username> | role=<role> | filter=<filter>}}

Where:

- <username> is the optional username of the logged-in user who has writing permissions for whom the customized dashboard is built (if any doubt, cross-check, in your preferences, your wiki username). Per default (if <username> is not set), the user who is currently logged-in, is considered.

- <role> is the optional role (e.g. main writer, expert...) for which the customized dashboard is built. The default value is MW.

The possible values for <role> are:

- MW: main writer
- EX: expert
- TW: technical writer
- MT: maintainer
- <filter> is the optional filter to reduce the number of listed pages. The default value is assignment. The possible value for <filter> is:
  - assignment: the dashboard lists all the pages that match with the user and role criteria
  - action: the dashboard lists only the pages that match with the user and role criteria, and for which an action from this user is required (e.g. follow-up, review...)

Summary:

&lt;role&gt;	&lt;filter&gt;	The dashboard lists the pages
