1 Usage

The HighlightParam template is used to highlight parameters, values or options that must be set, for example in commands, in pages. It formats the text with the STMicroelectronics corporate color shade of light green (`<parameter, value or option to highlight>`), and in bold.

Usage: {{HighlightParam|<parameter, value or option to highlight>}}
```

Where `<parameter, value or option to highlight>` is the parameter, value or option to highlight

2 Basic examples

You type	You get
Highlighting parameter, value or option <pre>To change the current console {{HighlightParam &lt;loglevel&gt;}}, simply write to this file:   {{Board$}} echo {{HighlightParam &lt;loglevel&gt;}} &gt; /proc/sys/kernel/printk</pre>	To change the current console &lt;loglevel&gt;, simply write to this file: <pre>Board $&gt; echo &lt;loglevel&gt; &gt; /proc/sys /kernel/printk</pre>

3 More examples

You type	You get
The parameter of the template is formatted in bold: it is useless because the template already formats in bold, but it keeps the parameter in bold <pre data-bbox="124 645 1035 891"> To change the current console {{HighlightParam ''&lt;loglevel&gt;''}}, simply write to this file:   {{Board$}} echo   ''{{HighlightParam &lt;loglevel&gt;}}'' &gt; /proc/sys   /kernel/printk </pre>	To change the current console &lt;loglevel&gt;, simply write to this file: <pre data-bbox="1058 696 1410 882"> Board $&gt; echo &lt;lo glevel&gt; &gt; /proc /sys/kernel /printk </pre>
